NINE IRISH BROTHERS & FIVE IRISH SISTERS

The original O'Bryan clan sailed from Cork in 1851 bound for New York. Fleeing the famine, they braved North Atlantic storms, corduroy roads, the Erie Canal and the uncertainties of Indiana farming to bring you this Irish pub.

That first Irish-American O'Bryan family had two surviving children, but the fifth generation of that family, that of Sylvester and Julia, had 14. And what a brood they turned out to be: lawyers, military men, real sisters (as in nuns), nurses, mechanics, coaches, businessmen, scientists, farmers, builders, and true community volunteers. In the words of sister Judy, "Mom and Dad taught us to laugh, love, share, pray and live."

Jerry O'Bryan, the majority owner of Nine Irish Brothers, is the youngest of nine boys (Berton, Jim, Michael, Norman, Bobby, Tim, John, and Willie) and five girls (Julie, Colleen, Patricia, Muriel, and Karen). Jerry pays tribute to his brothers with the pub's name, and honors his sisters with an inscription above the bar: & Five Irish Sisters.

Family is the core concept of a traditional Irish pub, and O'Bryan's Nine Irish Brothers is no exception: Family members helped to build the establishment, helped to prepare for operations, and assist with the day-to-day operations. It won't be long before you too feel like part of the O'Bryan family.

"HERE'S TO OUR WIVES AND GIRLFRIENDS! MAY THEY NEVER MEET." - IRISH TOAST

WHISKEY FLIGHTS

One of life's great pleasures, whiskey comes in a variety of styles, all designed to please the senses, enliven conversation, and lift the spirits. Try a sample of some of the world's best. All flights consist of four one-ounce samplings of whiskey. No substitutions, please.

AMERICAN BOURBON SMALL BATCH

American bourbon is distilled once, then aged in fresh charred oak barrels. Compared to Scotch and Irish whiskeys, bourbons impart a raw, sweet corn flavor. Small batch bourbons are made in limited quantities, aged six to nine years, and are characteristic of pre-Prohibition whiskey, with strong, rich flavors and aromas. The suggested tasting order for this flight is by proof.

Small Batch Flight $12

- 1) Basil Hayden (80 proof),
- 2) Woodford Reserve (90 proof),
- 3) Bakers (107 proof),
- 4) Bookers (121 proof)

SINGLE-MALT SCOTCH WHISKYS

Die-hard aficionados swear that nothing is finer than a single malt (one grain used in the whiskey, no blending from batch to batch), with its characteristic regional flavors. For others, a silky-smooth, well-balanced blended whisky hits the spot. Scotch as a whole is differentiated by the fact that it is double-distilled for additional purity, and the malt is dried over peat fires, lending it a degree of smokiness and earthiness, depending upon the region. Like its Irish cousin, Scotch is aged first in used bourbon barrels for at least three years. Older, rarer Scotches receive additional aging in Madeira, port, or other casks. The suggested tasting order of this flight of single malts is according to the strength and complexity of the peat, from least to most.

Single-Malt Scotch Flight: $16

- 1) Glenlivet 12 Year (Speyside),
- 2) Highland Park 12 Year (Island),
- 3) MacAllan 18 Year (Highland),
- 4) Laphroaig 10 Year (Islay).

IRISH WHISKEY FLIGHTS

Irish whiskey was considered the ultimate in whiskeys until the prohibition era, when American bootleggers labeled their bathtub varieties as "Irish." Only in the last ten years has Irish whiskey regained its preeminence as the world's finest. Like its cousin Scotch, Irish whiskey is initially aged in used oak bourbon casks for at least three years. What sets Irish whiskey apart is the fact that the malt grains are dried in ovens rather than over peat fires, and it is distilled three times, unlike any other whiskey. The result is a whiskey that is pure, clean, and smooth. Likewise, Irish whiskey is often aged in multiple barrels, lending it an unmatched smoothness and complexity.

Jameson Flight (all blended whiskeys):

Jameson, Jameson 12 Year, Jameson 18 Year, and Midleton. $18

Bushmills Flight: Bushmills (blended), Bushmills 10 (single malt), Bushmills 16 (single malt), and Bushmills 21 (single malt). $18

Tyrconnell Flight (all single-malt whiskeys):

Tyrconnell Port, Tyrconnell Sherry, Tyrconnell Maderia, and Greenore 15 yr. $18

Lesser-Known Greats: Knappogue Castle 10 Year (single malt), Clontarf (blended), Red Breast (Pure Pot Still) 12 Year, and Connemara 12 Year Peated (single malt). $10

Irish Pub Classics: Black Bush (blended), Paddy, Powers, and Tullamore Dew. $6

The Top Shelf: Jameson 18 Year (blended), Bushmills 21 Year (single malt), Midleton (blended), Jameson Vintage Reserve (blended). $25

FEATURED SPIRITS

Derived from the Gaelic “uisce beatha” (pronounced ishka baha), whiskey, or water of life was first distilled by Irish monks in the 11th century. Because of its heritage, Irish whiskey is considered among the best in the world. Here are a few reasons why: 1) The malt grains are dried in ovens rather than over peat fires, 2) Irish whiskey is distilled three times for smoothness, unlike any other whiskey, and 3) Irish law decrees that whiskey must be aged for a minimum of 3 years. The Irish don't like to rush things. Try a great Irish whiskey or another great spirit.
